Kunooz Oman is the main sponsor of the event for the second year and is steadfast in its commitment to the mining sector in Oman and its engagement with the ongoing economic diversification by highlighting the increasing capability of the sector towards the growth of the country.

Cunningham, Kunooz Oman's

CEO dean, said, "Oman Minerals & Mining Exhibition & Conference is a great place to showcase our group which is working towards an IPO in 2017. We are striving to be the best-in-class in a host of areas including HSSE, attracting talent and a working and operational environment that all our stakeholders can be proud of. We are proud to once again take centre stage as the main sponsor and present our high-quality portfolio of operations to the local and international mining community."

Oman has a rich variety of mineral resources with metallic minerals such as copper, gold, zinc, chromite, cobalt and iron ores and non-metallic minerals including dolomite, limestone, gypsum, silica and ornamental stones.

Oman has a definite edge in developing the mining industry with the availability of minerals in abundance, strategic geographic location, strong infrastructure such as roads and ports and robust manpower with skilled professionals. The focus now is to ensure that the sector obtains the right investors at the opportune time for heightened benefits. The mining sector in Oman foresees significant development in the next few years.

The event will serve as a business platform for the mining industry.
