

Oman mining firm Kunooz plans IPO in H1 2017

By Reuters Thursday, 1 September 2016 2:54 PM

Kunooz Oman Holding, one of the country's major mining, quarrying, transportation and construction materials groups, plans an initial public offer of its shares in the first half of 2017, chairman Salim Abdullah al-Rawas said on Thursday.

He told a news conference that the company had obtained initial approval from Oman's securities regulator to offer at least 25 percent of Kunooz's shares. Oman Arab Bank has been appointed financial adviser.

Oman Investment Fund, a sovereign wealth fund, acquired 20 percent of shares in Kunooz on Thursday, Rawas said without giving a figure for the size of the deal.

Follow @ArabianBusiness

Related:

Stories

- ▶ Oman's state fund invests $100m in Irish mining company
- ▶ UAE aluminium giant says to launch Guinea mine ops in 2018
- ▶ Dubai group seeks funding for $8bn Guinean bauxite mine
- ▶ Five Oman firms set to list on local bourse in 2016

Also in Markets

- ▶ Nasdaq Dubai begins trade in single-stock futures
- ▶ MidEast funds become more wary of bonds, Qatar stocks

Also in Oman

- ▶ Oman's Al Hoota Cave attraction to reopen after renovation
- ▶ Dubai's Landmark inks deal to open new shops in Muscat