كنوز عمان القابضة
Kunooz Oman Holding

Kunooz's name in Arabic means “treasure” and was incorporated in January 2014 following the consolidation of five subsidiaries namely Al Rawas Mining, Mihwar Al Wifaq, Al Rawas Marble and Granite, Salalah Readymix and Al Rawas Transport, and two associate companies Majan Mining and Carmeuse Majan forming one of the Sultanate's largest independently owned mining companies. Dean Cunningham, CEO said “Our current strategy involves ramping up and optimising our current operations and balance sheet, identifying new opportunities and acquisition targets in order to become a key player in the mining space”.

The founders the Al Rawas Family members have as recently as early September 2016 disinvested 20% of the shareholding to the Oman Investment Fund. The inclusion of OIF as a shareholder is set to increase investor confidence, lend credibility and strengthen Kunooz Oman's transformation into a public company with a vision of IPO'ing in 2017 dependent on global market conditions.

Currently, all of our subsidiaries and associates are operational with export activities contributing approximately 60 per cent of the group's revenue. Our business is currently export-driven and is aided by both global urbanization and infrastructure development. Given that we operate in related industries and sectors, our businesses are able to benefit from substantial synergies.

Our current aims can be summarized as follows:

- Efficiently allocate capital to our operating companies in order to drive both individual and synergistic growth.
- Continue to drive Kunooz forward by optimising our human resources; we strive to empower a top management team with sufficient flexibility to enhance operational efficiencies. In relation to this, we foresee extensive collaboration through partnerships within our holding structure.

Our Vision is to be a global competitor in the Natural Resources sector in creating long term value, through excellence and passion for its people and the planet.

Our Mission to be a Market leader in the Natural Resources sector of Oman with global growth aspirations through sustainable development and sound businesses principles.

Our Core Values encompasses health and safety, security and the environment, all Stakeholders, long term sustainability and team work.
